One of the primary challenges of spiritual leadership is this: the temptation to serve the wrong agenda.

Long story short, a To-Do list becomes your personal agenda for the tasks you believe must be completed on a given day.

So what? What's the convergence between To-Do lists and leadership?

Glad you asked.

I believe that one of the primary challenges of spiritual leadership is this: the temptation to serve the wrong agenda. To have an off-target To-Do list.

I like To-Do lists. Maybe you do too.

> A To-Do list, according to Wiktionary, is a list of errands and other tasks—often written on a piece of paper as a memory aid—that one needs or intends to accomplish.

Long story short, a To-Do list becomes your personal agenda for the tasks you believe must be completed on a given day.

So what? What's the convergence between To-Do lists and leadership?

Glad you asked.

I believe that one of the primary challenges of spiritual leadership is this: the temptation to serve the wrong agenda. To have an off-target To-Do list.

I like To-Do lists. Maybe you do too.

> A To-Do list, according to Wiktionary, is a list of errands and other tasks—often written on a piece of paper as a memory aid—that one needs or intends to accomplish.